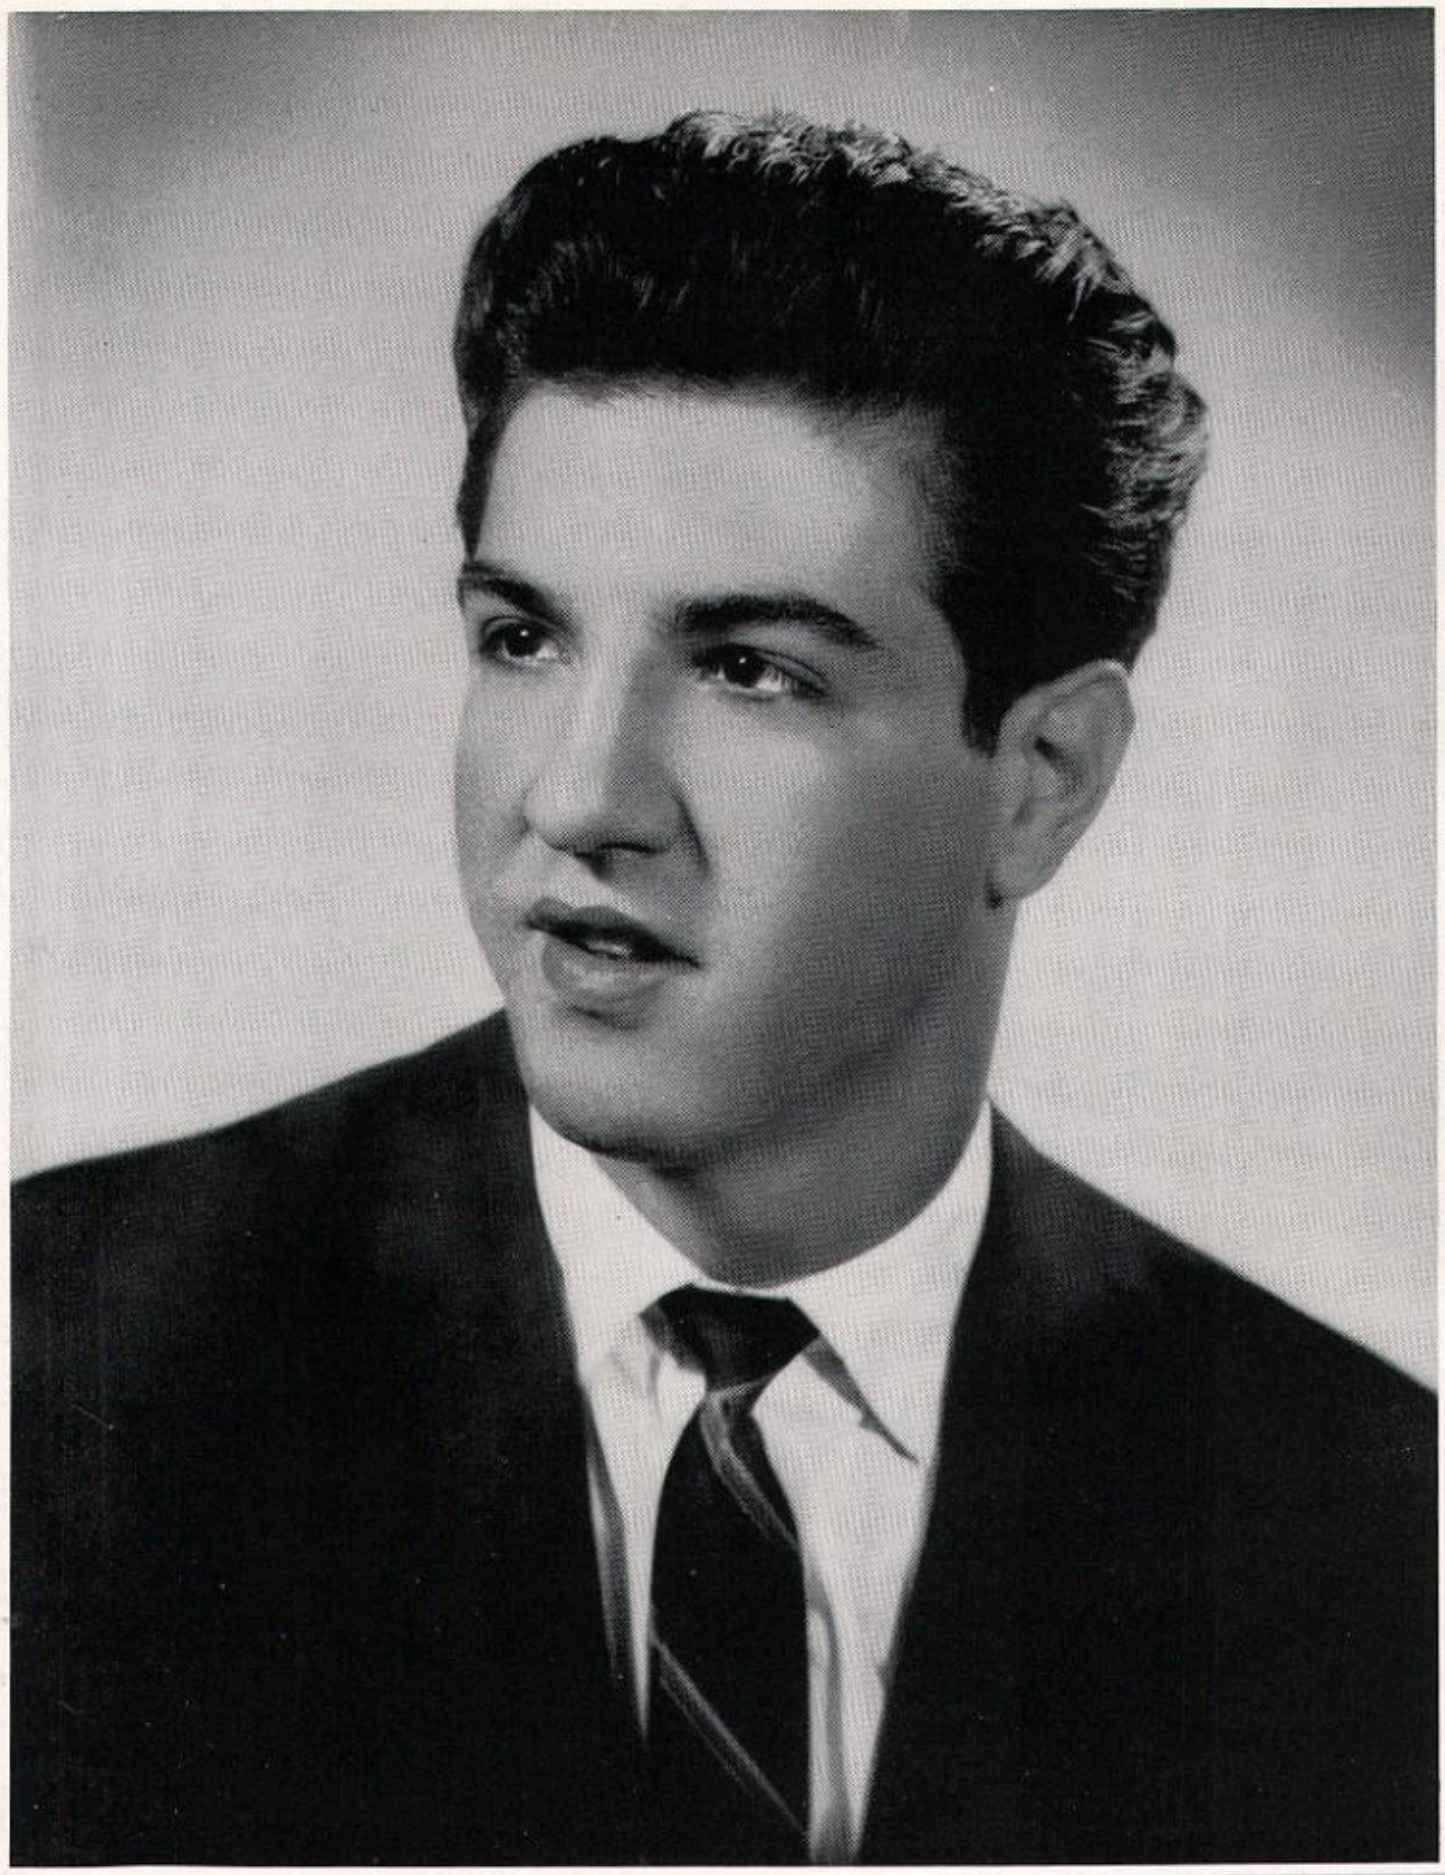
Dedication



The Family Behind The Man

It is with appreciation and gratitude that we, the Seniors, dedicate the 1963 SUSQUEHANNOCK to our "Music Man," Alfred Giancola.

"Mister G," do you recall your arrival in Millersburg at which time you were confronted with the task of reorganizing the band?

After a long, hard struggle, with your determination and overwhelming enthusiasm, you have not only succeeded in stimulating musical interest among the students and throughout the community, but have also made ours a "Superior" band whose members are proud to belong.

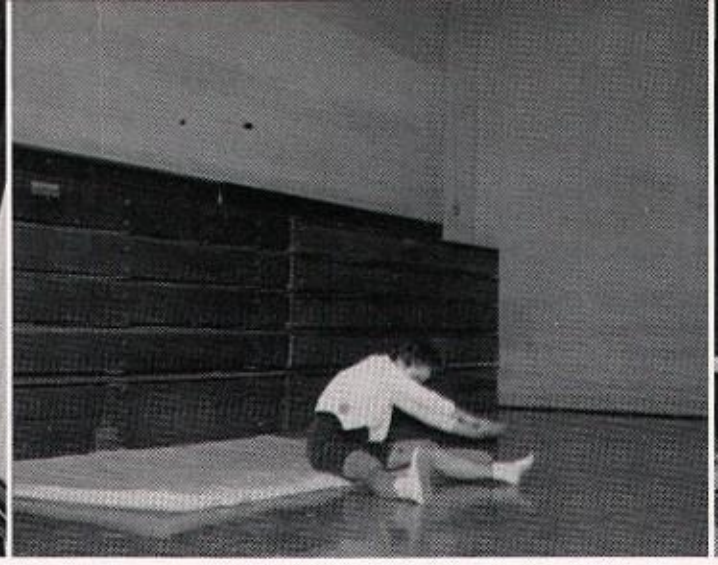
As an individualist you have initiated many new ideas which have brought both education and lots of fun to everyone.

Thanks for standing by us and working with us.

Our fondest wish is that your future may be golden.

Lynne, Scott, and Joan Giancola

Hey, you! Got a match?

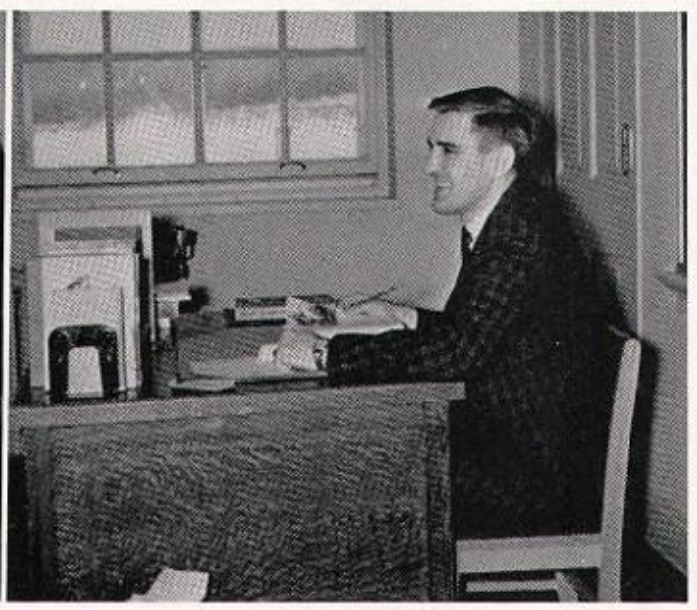


This little piggy went to market . . .

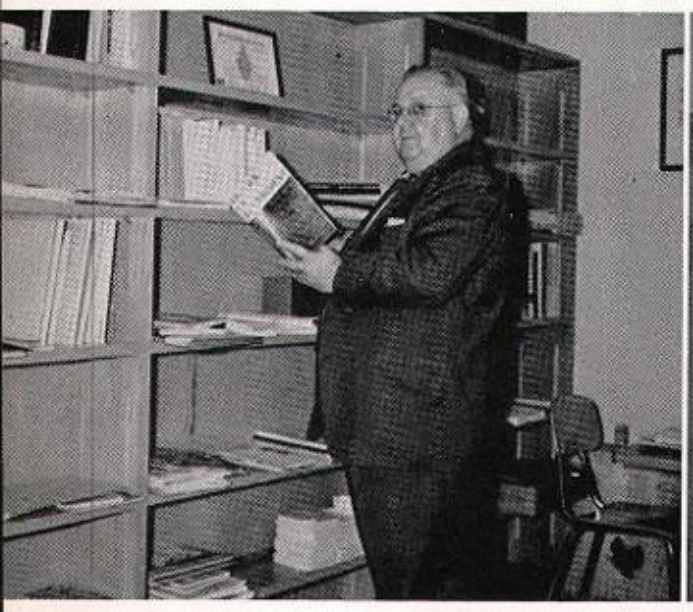
And as I was saying, students . . . Students? . . . STUDENTS?

You Called?

The Wardens!!!

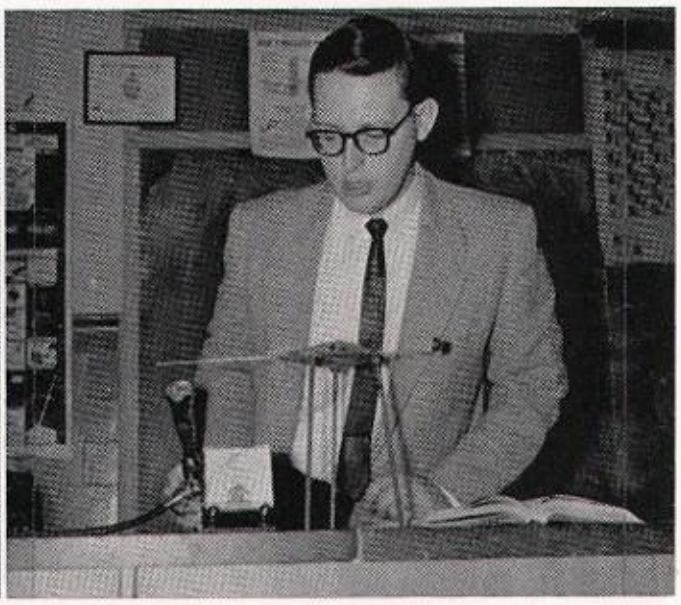


Haven't I seen this room before?



Why, yes, I'd be glad to show you my new Jack and Jill!

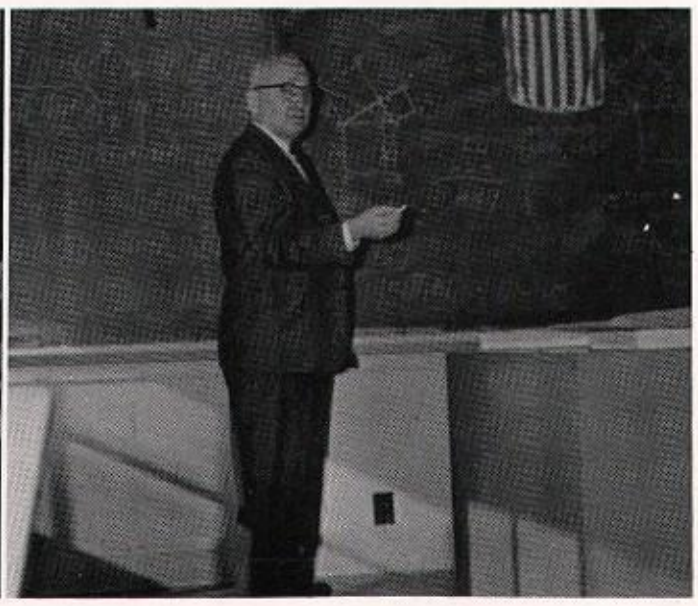
Ny-tol! (Next time use NO-DOZ!)



Why doesn't this #!$*/ experiment work?

Don't be so nosey!

Haloo Dere!!!



People, will you please be quiet.

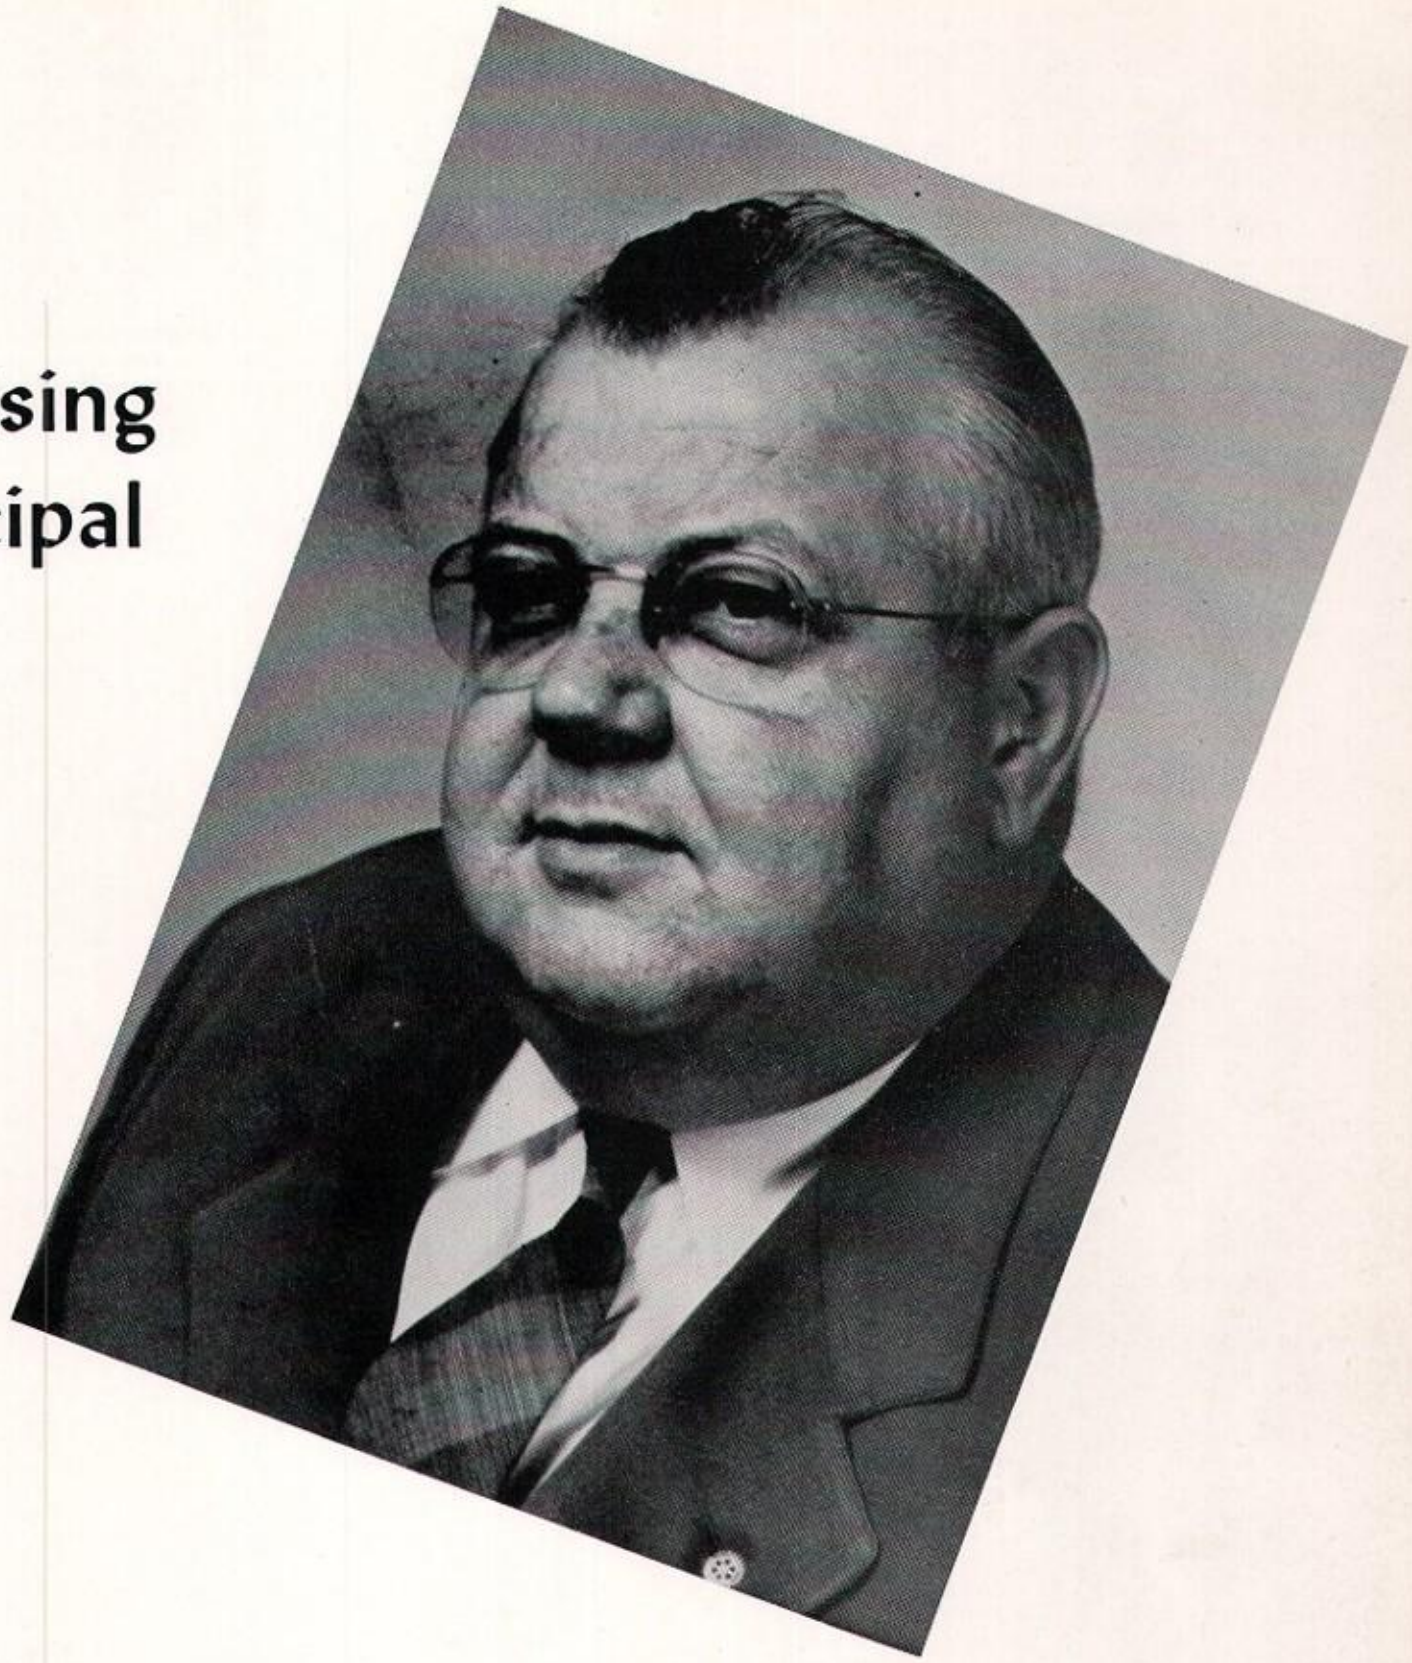
Millersburg-Upper Paxton Union School District

Our Board of Education

SEATED: H. Hottenstein, F. Cummings (secretary), R. Romberger, A. Hoffman, L. Zimmerman. STANDING: A. Shaffer (solicitor), H. Knarr, W. E. Sheely (supervising principal), C. Stockdale, R. Rissinger

The Millersburg Board of Education is bestowed with the responsibility of providing the best possible education for the students of the Millersburg-Upper Paxton Union School District. Our educational program stems from their supervision and guidance. To you, Gentlemen, we express our most sincere thanks.

Our Supervising Principal



TO THE CLASS OF 1963:

As you draw near to the end of your public school education, it would be wise to review and to evaluate the years that you have spent in school. The review of that period in your life is recorded to some extent in this Yearbook. Many of you will recall specific incidents with pleasure, satisfaction, and perhaps with envy and sorrow that there can be no repetition of these days.

There is little doubt that most of the past twelve years have been enjoyed by those of you in this class, this is of great importance, however, if there has been no benefit to you, then you have failed and we have failed. These experiences, therefore, must be considered as individual since each of you will react differently to any given method of instruction or to any given instructor.

What has happened to you in these years of school? What benefits have come to you? Are you now able or better able to make a living or to take your place in our society?

Each of you has changed, developed, grown and, I believe, benefited from public school attendance, however, the degree of that change, development, growth and benefit has differed. This is the unique feature of public education in that all are subject to the same environment but that in the end the results vary, the answer or reason is evident, you are individuals.

As you leave our best wishes go with you, we hope that we have helped you and that you helped us.

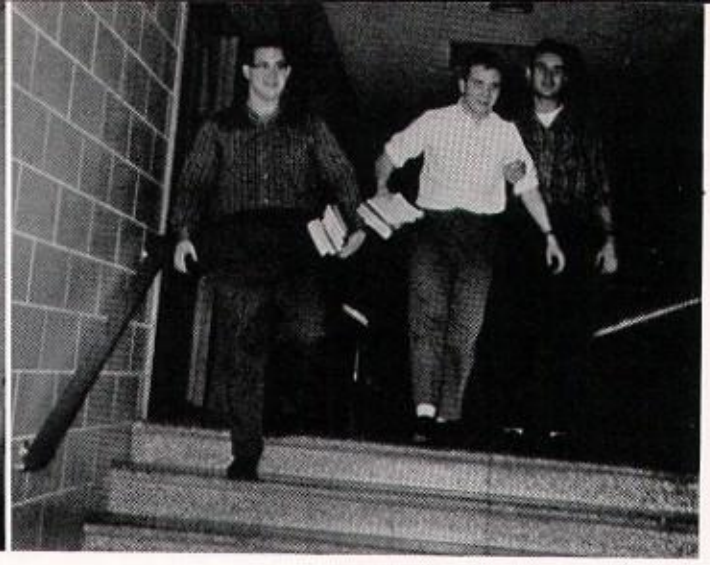
Magnificent seven minus four.

Won't she ever get here?



Don't let that first step throw you.

Are you still using that greasy kid stuff?

Hmmm. Fancy meeting you here.

Senior Diary

Dear Diary, Friday, June 7, 1963

A few months ago I made a vow with some friends that I wouldn't cry on this night; but Diary, even then I knew that I would cry—and I did. As a matter of fact, I guess we all cried tonight. Some were brave and didn't let a teardrop ruin their composure but deep, down inside they too felt the strange, mixed emotions only Graduation Night can bring. For twelve long years we have looked forward to this evening; now, all of a sudden, it's over. Are we happy? Are we sad? I don't believe we realize which is the stronger emotion at this time.

Formal education has ended for many of us, and we shall endeavor to seek a position in life while others will travel to institutions of higher learning before becoming a part of the working world. But no matter how many memories we may gather in the years ahead, the memory of the happy hours we spent in school will linger with us forever.

As we marched into the auditorium this evening in our caps and gowns, I believe that we each took a few moments to review some of the events that were a part of our school days.

My thoughts traveled all the way back to September of 1950 when I first opened the door of Mrs. Heckert's kindergarten. There I met many boys and girls who had gathered here for one purpose: to play. Oh! The toys we had! The first day we became acquainted and compared our vaccinations. Half of the kindergarten attended morning classes; the other half attended afternoon classes. We each had our own little rugs for "rest period." We all had a grand time playing store, eating cookies, taking care of the dollies in the big play house, climbing on the "Jungle Gym," and building with huge wooden blocks. We learned the ABC's and could count to "10." We built a big, black cardboard train. This was the pride and joy of the Spring Art Exhibit. On the first day in May we took part in a huge May Day Celebration on the high school football field. The Queen and her court were very proud. To end our wonderful year in kindergarten we presented The Wedding of the Flowers as part of our graduation exercises.

Our next big adventure was first grade. Those who went to Moore Street had Miss Walborn or Miss Shaffer. Lenkerville first graders were guided by Mrs. Hartman. I remember Dick, Jane, and Sally with their pets: Spot and Puff. Also, I remember those little paste jars. Everyday we would cut and paste and paste and cut. At the end of first grade we could read, and we could paste! How well we could paste!

In the fall of 1952 we made our debut into second grade. There was an epidemic of measles this year. After Christmas vacation we were taught the fundamentals of writing. Teachers in second grade included Mrs. Romberger, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Zimmerman.

September of 1953 was somewhat different for the Moore Street pupils. We attended half-day classes in the social hall of the E.U.B. Church on Center Street while the Moore Street building was being remodeled. We were constantly thirsty that September. This was not because of hot weather. It was due to the fact that we could drink from tiny paper cups instead of fountains. The second half of the year we went to our remodeled class rooms. Our teachers were Miss Shuler and Mrs. Hetrick. Mrs. Albert and Mrs. Phillips were teaching the students at Lenkerville the "times-table." We visited the Shrine Circus that year, and what a good time we had!

We started fourth grade in 1954. We had new subjects that year. We were introduced to such advanced courses as geography and history. Mrs. Novinger, Mrs. Miller, and Mr. Lebo were fourth grade teachers. We had lots of fun at recess playing games such as: Peanuts, Coffee, Mammy Witch, Double-Dutch and Hop Scotch. The boys played marbles and baseball. The girls carried with them cigar boxes full of "stickers" to trade with friends! We used Easter seals, Christmas seals, and even postage stamps! Moore Street pupils enjoyed their daily trip to Moretz's or Red's for penny candy and pretzel sticks.

In 1955 we entered fifth grade. In Lenkerville Mrs. Teats taught half of fifth grade along with her sixth grade. The other half of Lenkerville's fifth grade was taught by Miss Shadle. Moore Street fifth graders had Mrs. Wert and Miss Kiehl. Those in Miss Kiehl's room were well acquainted with her knack of snapping her fingers. Some of us at Moore Street were chosen to be members of the School safety patrol, and, for this reason, we went to the circus again. We all learned famous poems that year. How fortunate we were to have so many parties on school time. We also enjoyed being in the Halloween Parade.

September of 1956 found the class of '63 in the sixth grade. We were quite grown-up that year, but we still loved the stories our teachers would read to us. Mrs. Lenker and Mrs. Seal taught at Moore Street and Mrs. Teats at Lenkerville. The School Safety Patrol went on a trip to Washington, D.C. We had science and health classes that year, and we attended them in the auditorium. We were looking forward to Junior High School with great anticipation. Our annual "Picnic in the Park" was a huge success in sixth grade because the Lenkerville kids and the Moore Street kids had their picnic on the same day. This gave us a little preview of what the class of '63 would be like once we combined. That picnic was lots of fun; we made a cloverblossom chain, watched a baseball game, and "danced?" to records in the M.Y.O. building. The summer following sixth grade was an exciting one for all of us. It was the year of the big Sesqui-Centennial celebration. We had a lovely summer, and in September we took a giant step—we were seventh graders!

How confusing that first day was! There were so many teachers to meet, so many books to carry, new friends to greet, and so many new things like: schedule cards, study halls, and detention. And, the funny looks we kept receiving from those big seniors. However, seventh grade was fun for most of us, and our homeroom teachers had patience and understanding. You remember, they were Mr. Matchett and Mr. Leshko. We liked Mr. Leshko so well that a fan club was formed immediately as well as one for Mr. Miller, our history teacher. We all made an important purchase that first week—a gym case or gym bag! We lugged them through the halls faithfully. We sold magazines in seventh grade. At the end of the year we had the time of our lives on a bus excursion to Hershey Park and Zoo. We rode the roller coaster so often we became dizzy.

After another glorious summer we returned to M.H.S. for our eighth grade homeroom assignments. Half of the class was in Miss Campbell's charge; the other half had Mr. Higgins. We were a little more confident this year because we "knew the ropes" now and could tease the seventh graders. We had the thrill of our young lives by attending our first semi-formal dance with a real orchestra—this affair was the Junior high party. At the end of the year we had to choose our courses for next year.

September of 1959 found us in two homerooms. Some of us were lucky enough to have Mr. Higgins again which pleased us very much. He knew our names already, and we knew him. The other half of ninth grade found themselves in Mrs. Antes' care. Our classes were now divided into four courses. We started to learn what homework was all about. Academic Students were baffled by algebra and Latin. In the spring of the year we sold Easter candy.

Sophomores are we! Onward to '63! That was our cry. Tenth grade was the year that we met Mr. Merena. Half of the class was in his homeroom; the others were in Mr. Bahner's room. We had a fine program of clubs in tenth grade. We made huge profits selling Christmas candy, even though many of the samples were devoured by eager young salesmen.

The fall of 1961 was the beginning of our Junior year. We were now young adults. Many of us had driver's licenses, and some of the more fortunate owned their own cars. Our junior year was a big one, and with so much to do, we needed much guidance and understanding. We received both from our fine home room teachers. Homeroom 6 was in the care of Mr. Kelchner. The other half of the class had Mrs. Gilbert and later, Mrs. Stetz when she came back with her broken leg. Most of the class was wearing class rings now, and they weren't all Millersburg rings! We had a big task ahead of us that year—presenting the seniors of '62 with a prom. Those Committee meetings were like the Lincoln-Douglass debates. We finally chose our theme—Utopia. The next few weeks consisted chiefly of chicken wire, paper mache, gold paint, and oh! Those millions of pieces of broken mirror! But it was worth all the sweat and toil, for we had a lovely prom. It was an event that won't be forgotten.

On September 5, 1962, we rejoiced at the fact that finally we would be one great big homeroom. Mr. Fox had the task of keeping watch over fifty-four Seniors, and what a job that can be! We had some exciting football games in the fall. The most memorable event of our first semester was that wonderful three-day bonanza, commonly called a Senior Class Trip! Who could ever forget the fun we had running around town the night before! Our train trip was another fun type experience, especially the bargain prices in the dining car. We shall never forget the beautiful Burlington, the bus tours, house detectives, food at Scholl's, the changing of the guard. Washington D.C. was the place where we really felt like one big family for a change. We were glad to be back home, but that was an experience we can look back upon with happy thoughts. Our senior year was an expensive one; as we found out after ordering announcements, pennants, and yearbooks. It was worth every penny.

Yes, Diary, I've just reminisced a little about the past. Those were just a few of the thoughts I had. No one could ever write about all the things school meant to them. The subject is too vast to cover. We had so many teachers and friends who helped to guide us through the many trials and tribulations of our adolescent years. We learned so much in school, and it wasn't all from books. Many of our teachers helped us learn by relating their experiences to us so that we could learn from them rather than by trial and error. I honestly think that our class had a history to be proud of, and we can beam with pride anytime that someone mentions the class of '63.

Some time in the years ahead we will be cleaning out a closet or an attic, and there in a dusty corner we will see some old notebooks, a few souvenirs, and probably—this yearbook. We will turn the pages and relive once again the best days of our lives.

"¡Que Sera Sera!"

Que Sera, Sera,
Whatever will be, will be.
The future's not ours to see.
But here's the way it looks to me:
I gaze deep into a crystal ball
And what do I see—a long, long hall.
There are names on the doors of every room.
This is an office building, I presume.
I read the sign on the door that's nearest to me.

It says: Quiet! Recording, Radio, and T.V.
So I peek inside, and whom do I see?

Why it's the "Dixieland Five" plus three.
Harold Reisch on trumpet, you might have known,
And Paul Keefer was playing on his trombone.
Karl Lesher was making that clarinet whine,
And the tuba was tooted by Terry Kline.
Joan Zimmerman and Willa Sweigard were plunking pianos together,
And Ben Kocher was singing a song about Stormy Weather.

The bass fiddle was played by Melvin Beard,
And the audience there just cheered and cheered.
Quite a successful group, you can plainly see,
But I must leave now for someone's calling me.
Why, it's the ten o'clock coffeebreak out in the hall.
There's Jim Troutman and Donna Faber near the wall.
They've brought their wares for the people to buy.
Donna's selling "subs," and Jim is selling pie.
Look! Down the hall is someone else I know.
It's Linda Snyder, and she's walking very slow.
"Hi, Linda, why are you walking so slow?
Is it because you have no place to go?"
She said, "Oh, no! It's just that I have aches and pains
Now that I'm bowling instructor at the Halifax Lanes.
You see, I really don't want to walk this slow,
But I dropped a big bowling ball on my toe."
She must have had an appointment with Connie Witmer M.D.
Dr. Witmer's office is in Suite 1203.
Someone important and distinguished is coming through the elevator door.
It's the Mayor of Killinger, Jerry Boyer, and his secretary, Diane Schorr.
Behind them is the very sophisticated Miss Lorna Wade.
She's a buyer for Pomeroy's, and she's very well-paid.
With her is Terry Russell, his nickname is "Mouse."
He now sells magazines from house to house.
Janie Kay Hoffman's getting off the elevator too.
She's a school bus driver and just passing through.
And there's Jim Emerick delivering groceries on this floor,
He's the friendly delivery boy from the new Weis Store.
That elevator operator looks familiar to me.
Yes, it's Carol Manning; we call her Carol Dee.
Down the halls someone's attracting quite a crowd.
He's tall and handsome, and he looks very proud.
He's smiling and signing autographs galore.
He's Roy Nelson Roadcap, that's for sure.
"Hi! Butch, how do you like all this fame?"
"I'll have you know 'Rock' Roadcap is my name!"
Oh, well, let's see what's going on in Room 1202.
There's Dale Snyder and Bill Enders doing a Sports Interview.
They broadcast daily on WMBG.
They've just won approval from the F.C.C.
They're interviewing Basketball's Player of the Year.
It's Steve "Bugs" Barnes grinning from ear to ear.
With him is a wrestler who looks ready to fight.
It's the famous boy from Paxton: Ron "Killer" White.
Kathy Barry's there waiting for commercial time.
She sings the cute "Happy Motoring" Rhyme.
Across the hall is the N.H.R.A.
The executives are meeting there today.
In case you don't know what those letters stand for
It's National Hot Rod Association, and it's on the door.
Behind the desk is what they call "The Big Three"
Edd Miller, Jim Teter, and Lannie Lupold, I see.
They're busy making plans and pacing up and down,
For they want a dragstrip in this part of town.
I see a big drawing board near the windows to the West.
There two artists are trying to do their best.
Jo Ann Spessler and Sue Hoy are earning their pay
Designing Corvair Monzas for Chevrolet.
Down the hall there is a dance studio,
And I see two girls that I should know.
Trudy Ornforf is teaching tap and ballet,
And Donna St. Sing twirls a baton all day.

Donna and Trudy are going next door
To keep an appointment they have at four.
It's the Empire Beauty Shoppe, so let's have a look.
I see the owner, Darla Straw, and her assistant, Sandie Cook.
Down in room 13 there is a recreation place.
It's Coleman's Casino, owned and operated by "Ace."
If you want to learn to play cards, that's the place to go.
There's not a rule in the book that Harv doesn't know.
Now I look across the hall.
I see a sign upon the wall.
Haskin's Taxi Cab Service with style,
Owner and operator's name is Lyle.
And to go to Lykens with great speed,
Just taxi along with Buddie Reed.
There's a conference in room 1205 today
With the leaders of the F.F.A.
Tom Hammaker's telling how to plant good wheat
Bob Lenker has built a tractor that can't be beat.
But Larry Snyder couldn't be with them today.
He had to stay on the farm and cut the hay.
Oh, I almost forgot to tell you,
I see a Travel Agency in Room 22.
Two airline hostesses are trying to check luggage for a quarter.
I believe it's Miss Donna Messersmith and Miss Nancy Border.
I see Linda Kocher there, looking happy and gay.
She's buying a ticket for North Carolina (one-way)
Nurse Wanda Henninger is taking a trip.
She's going to Hawaii on a hospital ship.
I don't know what she'll do when she's there.
I guess marry a beach boy with coal-black hair.
There's a poster on the wall I'd like to note.
It says Tour the Susquehanna by Ferry Boat.
See the beautiful river and the islands too.
Miss Georgia Rhoads will point them out to you.
Now beyond the Travel Agency is a nice place to go.
It's the Good Housekeeping Test Kitchen, you know.
There, at a stove, I see Amy Kohr.
She's a terrific cook, and what's more,
A friend of hers is a super baker.
We remember her as Esther Raker.
In another room in this building I know
Is Shirl Hoy's Photography Studio
National Magazines are her specialty,
So let's go in and see what's to see.
Martha Shiffer is modeling for a magazine.
You'll see her on the cover of Seventeen.
For Outdoor Life a model is paddling a canoe.
She loves the outdoors and the river too.
Did you say you haven't guessed it yet?
I'll give you a clue: She's a brunette.
Now do you know whom I'm talking about?
She's Miss Jane Sheetz, without a doubt.
And posing for the cover of American Girl
Is a Miss who's always in a social whirl.
I'll tell you this, and it's no joke.
You'd better believe it's Miss Linda Hoke.
Out in the hall I hear high heels clickety-clack,
And I hear two secretaries going yakety-yak.
They're Miss Sandie Sheetz and Miss Kay Hain,
Hurrying out to lunch before it may rain.
Bruce Etzweiler has an office here too.
He sells used cars for "you know who."
A strange thing happened just this minute.
I checked the next room, and there's no one in it.
Could it be this building is exclusively
The headquarters for the class of '63?
Yes, Que Sera, Sera,
Whatever will be, will be.
The future's not ours to see
But think of the fun that it would be!
